Business Process Panel at IASA Features Insurance Experts

BillMatrix Unit of Fiserv to Discuss Convenient and Secure Payment Processes

DALLAS, Texas – June 4, 2007 – Electronic payment service provider BillMatrix will be participating in a panel on implementing business process improvements for insurance companies, concentrating on billing and payment processes, at this year's IASA 2007 annual conference in Minneapolis. By simplifying these customer touch point processes with a focus on ease of use and self service options, insurance carriers can improve their retention and new customer acquisition rates.

Dennis Kraft, vice president of sales for BillMatrix Corporation, will be the panel's payments expert.

"The use of telephone- and Internet-based self-service channels provide consumers with convenience and control of the timing of their premium payment," said Kraft. "Carriers benefit from leveraging the expertise and security infrastructure of an outsourced service provider such as BillMatrix while taking advantage of lower cost payment methods such as PIN-less debit from the ATM networks. With this payment method, carriers get virtually guaranteed funds as the money in the consumer's checking account is held for that premium payment at the completion of the transaction. Eliminating NSF's, reducing returns and exception items all add up to making this a great payment option. Our insurance clients highly value the positive impact on their receivables processes as we deliver the most effective payment solutions possible."

The session, entitled The Frictionless Enterprise: The Key to Faster Processing and Improved Customer Service, is scheduled for Tuesday, June 5 at 3:30pm. It will include experts providing an overview of electronic bill presentment, claims processing and legal invoicing in addition to the payments segment.

BillMatrix pioneered PIN-less debit functionality for its biller clients in both the telephone and the Internet payment channels and offers same-day posting of consumer payments via real-time updates of both customer information and accounting systems. Conference attendees can review BillMatrix' comprehensive electronic payment services at the IASA Conference booth #845.
